

Public housings

Public housing projects have been initiated for assisting low-income household in owning residence and enhancing life quality. From 1955 to 1975, the government assisted and built 125,000 units of public housing according to the “Public Housing Loan Act.” In 1975, the “Public Housing Act” regulated all public housing should be built by the government. In 1982, the amended of the “Public Housing Act” stated that other than government-built public housing, citizens could apply for loan and build housing in remote areas. In 1984, the government encouraged non-governmental investment on public housing. In 1990, the government gave out interest subsidy for low income family to purchase residences. To implement the measures of the integrity for real estate in 2002, Construction Loans to Individuals was stopped for one year. Due to other substitutive preferential loans in 2003, the Government Loans for Purchasing House was stopped for one year. And, due to other substitutive preferential loans in 2005 and 2006, Construction Loans to Individuals and Government Loans for Purchasing House were stopped. Moreover, because the regulation of the Act was integrated into the Regulations for Integrative Housing Resources Subsidy, the Government Loans for Purchasing House were suspended in 2007, due to the addition of regulations for such loans. Further, “The enforcement rules of Personal Housing Loan” were integrated into that of “Rural Development Acceleration Program” Afterward, the application for loan and build housing in remote areas has thus been suspended since 2008.

According to “Regulations for Integrative Housing Resources Subsidy”, the Council (CPAMI) had initiated the operation affair of “the preferential loans of house subsidy” since 2007 intending to provide those disadvantageous citizens housing rental subsidy or housing loan interest subsidy in case of meeting the application requirements of “the preferential loans of house subsidy”, “preferential loans of housing improvement subsidy” or “housing rental subsidy” to obtain suitable residence. Moreover, the enactment of “Regulations of Preferential Housing Loan Program for Successful Family Foundation of Youth” had been introduced since 2009 to match up the population policy. The goal of such enactment is to benefit families composed of newly-married people aged between 20~40 people without their own houses or families composed of children aged less than 20. This enactment can provide “housing rental subsidy” and “the preferential loans of house subsidy”.

The implementation and progress of the above regulations of public house and loan subsidy will be briefed as below:
